Summary: this si wat the animorphs r goign thru...as far as i am concerned it's bout believing them

They venture into a world very deep Where they can't cry out for help or even weep The world is in their hands It's about the future of many lands They have a mission so brave It's to bring out the people strong and safe Determination they are filled with But they see darkness even in the brightest place lit And with their will power Give up-they would never They'll be confident, never as a decision they will take to cower They have with them my faith and trust I believe that, one day, a warm glow over the world they'll cast As they continue in their quest for freedom, They must know that one day will come the moment When everyone thanks the Animorphs gratefully And till then, let's wait patiently

End
file.
